

Women's Studies in Religion Hosts

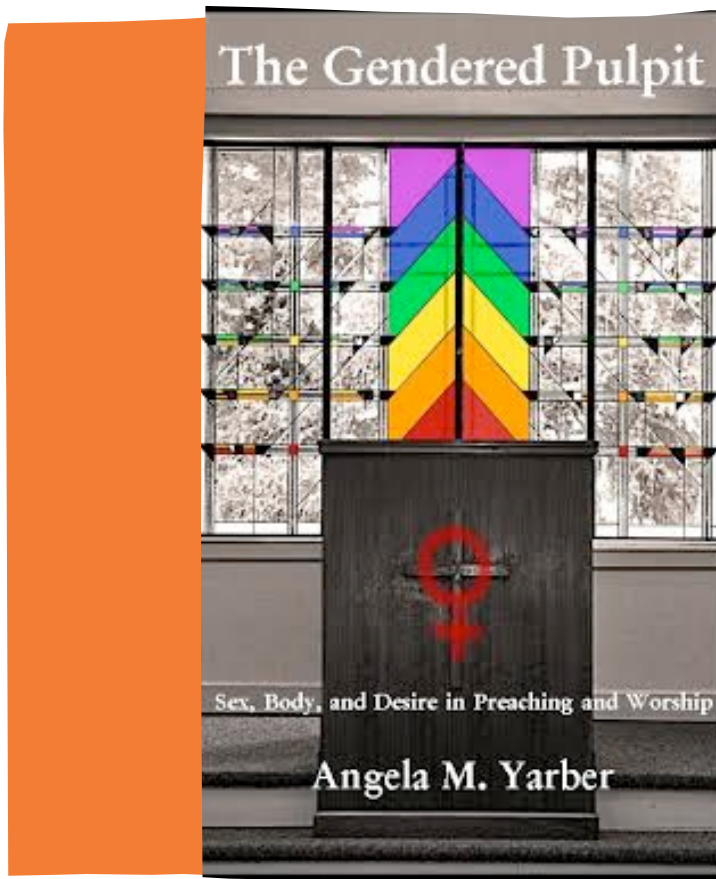

The Gendered Pulpit:

Sex, Body, and Desire in Preaching and Worship

Friday, April 25th 10-11:30

in the GTU Student Lounge

2465 LeConte

Please join us for a talk and book signing with GTU Alum, Rev. Dr. Angela Yarber. Her work calls for “gendering the pulpit in the direction of justice” by dismantling the patriarchal status quo in favor of inclusion and radical hospitality.

Rev. Dr. Angela Yarber is author of three books addressing the intersections among religion, gender/sexuality, and the arts. She holds a Ph.D. in Art and Religion from GTU and is adjunct professor of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Wake Forest University. She has been a clergywoman, professional artist and dancer since 1999. For more, visit www.angelayarber.com

The Gendered Pulpit will available for purchase for $20 at the event.
